Welcome to the NGOsource Equivalency Determination Questionnaire! As you may know, a U.S. based grantmaker is in the process of evaluating a grant request for your organization. As part of your grant application, NGOsource (an independent U.S.-based nonprofit) has been asked to complete an equivalency determination.

Under U.S. tax law, grantmakers must satisfy specific legal requirements before making a grant to an entity, such as yours, that is organized under the laws of a country other than the U.S. These legal requirements may be satisfied by making an equivalency determination (ED). The purpose of the ED is to demonstrate that your organization is the equivalent of a U.S. public charity. If you qualify as the equivalent of a U.S. public charity, grantmakers may choose to reduce restrictions on your use of grant funds.

We understand that this complex process may seem time-consuming or confusing, and we have made every effort to make it as simple as possible. Please know that completing this process one time will enable other U.S.-based grantmakers to find your organization more easily.

Required documents to collect.

Before you begin the online equivalency determination questionnaire, please collect the following:

- Financial statements for the past 5 years. You will be requested to enter financial information in your local currency. Based on the information provided, your local currency is CHF = Swiss Franc.
- Governing documents in English language. (These documents are required by the U.S. government. Governing documents are used to register or form your organization, such as articles of incorporation, bylaws, or other formation documents. If your documents are not in English, you will need to translate parts of them. Translations do not need to be certified.)
- Funder names and grant amounts for the past 5 years.

Activities

1. Please briefly describe your organization’s current activities. *
   ICVA’s strategy gives direction and focus of ICVA’s work. It encapsulates ICVA’s vision, recognises its unique and diverse membership, and illustrates the engagement between the Secretariat and members on key focus areas to better enable humanitarian response. It guides the ICVA Secretariat’s workplans and allocation of resources. Strategy 2019-2021 https://www.icvanetwork.org/resources/strategy-2019-2021

   ICVA recognise that humanitarian action is part of a constantly changing Landscape, posing new challenges and promoting new approaches. It current strategy, therefore, aims to define its direction and guide decisions to achieve the vision while leaving space for any needed adaptions. ICVA can only achieve its potential with the active engagement of the ICVA members. ICVA brings together humanitarian NGOs from around the world and helps them understand, engage and influence the humanitarian sector.

2. Please describe briefly your organization’s historical activities, or if applicable, state that they are the same as your current activities. *
   ICVA’s mission, as a global network of NGOs, is to make humanitarian action more principled and effective by working collectively and independently to influence policy and practice.

   Established in 1962 by a small coalition of refugee and migration focused non-governmental organisations (NGOs), ICVA has grown into a diverse network of NGOs operating at global, regional, national and local levels. ICVA advocates for principled humanitarian action, enhances recognition by governments and international organisations of the vital NGOs and encourages high quality partnerships among humanitarian stakeholders. ICVA promotes a rights based needs based approach.

   ICVA maintains its historical focus on forced displacement while at the same time addressing fundamental and emerging elements of concern to NGOs related to all crisis-affected populations.

   ICVA for over 57 years, is a key supporter for NGOs and their partners, helping them to understand and influence the humanitarian sector and shape a more effective and responsive humanitarian system that better meets the needs of crisis people.
3. Please describe briefly the activities your organization is planning for the future (the next few years). *

ICVA’s thematic focus areas are vehicles for members to work together on issues of common concern: Forced Migration, Humanitarian Coordination, Humanitarian Financing and Navigating Change which comprises Nexus, Localisation, Safeguarding and Shrinking Civic Space.

Most of the Secretariat’s team is based in Geneva, giving proximity to global humanitarian debates and decision making. ICVA complements this presence in Geneva through Regional Representatives in ASIA and Pacific, MENA and AFRICA, providing an important link between global and regional perspectives and ensuring a connection to the operational realities of our members.

ICVA also invests in support to country-level NGO Fora operating in humanitarian contexts.

ICVA is engaging in a consultation of its members in 2020 which will guide the review of ICVA's added value in a fast changing environment (ICVA 2030 Added Value - 2022-2030). The basic architecture (an NGO membership-led organisation) and the thematic focusses will un-doubtfully remain but strategic adaptations will be made to increase the impact with reference to the mission.

Across all focus areas, and at all levels - global, regional, and when possible country level - ICVA carries out set of activities with specific expected results: 1. Analysing and Explaining; 2. Convoking; 3. Connecting; 4. Influencing and Advocating; 5. Supporting NGOs.

4. Please select the code that best describes the primary activities of your organization. *

Political Campaign Activity

U.S. law prohibits your organization from engaging in "political campaign intervention." This includes any attempt to support or oppose a candidate for elected public office. Activities that may be considered campaign intervention include the following:

- endorsing or rating political candidates on the organization's issues
- making political campaign contributions
- publishing voter guides expressing support for or against particular candidates
- seeking to persuade voters to vote for (or not to vote for) particular candidates
- taking other steps designed to favor one candidate over another

Efforts to increase voter registration and voter participation, or to educate voters about issues through neutral voter guides or candidate debates, are NOT considered to be political campaign intervention as long as these activities are neutral about candidates.

1. Do the laws in your country permit your organization to participate or intervene in any political campaign in favor of or in opposition to any person seeking elected public office? *
   I don’t know

2. Do the governing documents of your organization specifically authorize your organization to participate or intervene in a political campaign in favor of - or in opposition to - a person running for political office? *

   No

2. Please specify the section of your governing documents which refers to this prohibition. *
   Not applicable
3. Do the governing documents of your organization specifically permit your organization to attempt to influence legislation (other than as an insubstantial part of its activities)? A substantial part means more than five percent of total expenditures or more than five percent of staff and volunteer time each year.

   No

4. If “yes,” please specify the page and section of your governing documents that specifically permit your organization to influence legislation.

   Not applicable

5. Does your organization generally spend a substantial part (more than five percent) of its resources attempting to influence legislation?

   Yes

Influencing Legislation - Definition 1

Because you have confirmed that your organization spends a substantial part (over 5%) of its resources attempting to influence legislation (or because you have expressed uncertainty), we need to ask you several follow-up questions about your organization's activities. As you may know, the purpose of the Equivalency Determination process is to demonstrate that your organization is the equivalent of a U.S. public charity. To qualify as the equivalent of a U.S. public charity, U.S. tax law requires that your organization not attempt to influence legislation as a “substantial part” of its activities. U.S. tax law defines "lobbying" or "attempting to influence legislation" in a very specific way. As a result, some of the activities that you consider to be "lobbying" or "attempting to influence legislation" may not be classified in the same way under the U.S. tax rules.

For our purposes, an activity must meet the U.S. tax definitions below or it is not considered to be lobbying under U.S. tax laws.

- First, lobbying includes any communication to any government office or segment of the public directly advocating the adoption or repeal of legislation.
- It also includes any direct contacts with legislators, their staffs, or other government officials, or encouraging the public to make such contacts, if the purpose behind such communications is to support or oppose a legislative proposal.
- Influencing legislation also includes time spent researching, preparing, and coordinating the lobbying activities set forth above, and if a meeting or publication involves lobbying, generally the entire meeting or publication (or at least the portion addressing topics related to the lobbying) will be treated as lobbying.

However, in determining how much of your organization's activity is influencing legislation, the following activities should not be included:

- Nonpartisan analysis and research. This includes in-depth reports, papers, and similar documents providing an analysis of a specific law or legislative proposal that is sufficiently full and fair to allow a reader to develop an independent view of the merits of the legislation. The analysis must not be made available only to those interested in one side of the issue, but may express its own conclusion as to whether the legislation in question should be adopted.
- Discussing broad social issues. Communications to legislators or members of the public about broad social issues, without referring to specific legislative proposals, do not count as influencing legislation even if the issues are of a kind that could eventually be addressed by legislation.
- Technical Advice. Influencing legislation does not include oral or written communications provided to a government body (including a legislative committee or subcommittee but not including an individual legislator's office) in response to a written request from that body.
- Self-defense. Do not count direct communications with members of a legislature regarding your organization's own powers, duties, or tax status.
- Influencing regulations, decrees, and other government action by executive bodies rather than the legislature. In many countries, particular government agencies or ministries have authority over a particular subject matter (such as the environment, schools, or the criminal law) and issue decrees or regulations in their specific subject matter area. Influencing the actions of these special-purpose government bodies is not lobbying, unless your organization urges them to support or oppose legislation passed by a legislative body such as a parliament, congress, city council, or similar body with broad jurisdiction to make law on a wide variety of subjects).
1. Based on the U.S. tax law definitions, do you spend a substantial amount (over five percent) of your resources or staff and volunteer time attempting to influence legislation or to lobby? *

No

Dissolution

Dissolution means the process by which an organization closes down and permanently ends operations. For example, the organization can merge with another organization, convert to a for-profit entity, or otherwise close such that it no longer exists for charitable purposes. "Other charitable purposes" might include purposes beneficial to the community such as advancement of education or science; relief of the distressed, or of the underprivileged; advancement of religion; erection or maintenance of public buildings, monuments, or works; lessening the burdens of government; elimination of prejudice and discrimination; defense of human and civil rights secured by law; combating community deterioration or juvenile delinquency; environmental protection; promotion of the arts; promotion of health; and other similar purposes.

A government instrumentality may be an agency, corporation, board, or other organization that is formed by an act of a governmental body, such as congress or parliament, or it may be a non-governmental entity owned or controlled by such a body that carries out a governmental purpose.

1. Upon dissolution, do the laws and customs in your country, or your organization's governing documents, require the organization to transfer assets to another not-for-profit organization operated exclusively for religious, scientific, literary, educational, or other charitable purposes, or to a government instrumentality? *

Yes

2. If "yes," please specify the page and section of your governing documents that require your assets to be transferred to another charitable organization upon dissolution, or if that requirement is found in other applicable law, please identify that law here. *

   Article XVIII of the ICVA Statute.

3. Is your organization prohibited by law or custom or by your governing documents from dissolving? *

   No

4. If "yes," please specify the page and section of your governing documents that prohibit your organization from dissolving, or if that requirement is found in other applicable law, please identify that law here. *

   Not applicable

Personal Benefit

1. Do the laws and customs governing not-for-profit status in your country permit the organization's assets to be given to a private person or non-charitable organization? This does not include situations where assets are used: (1) in pursuit of the organization's charitable activities, (2) to pay fair compensation for services, or (3) to sell property at fair market value. *

   No

2. Does your organization have any shareholders or members who gain a personal or private benefit from, or have an ownership interest in, the organization's income or assets, other than fair compensation for services? *

   No

3. Does your organization have a substantial purpose of operating for the private benefit of individuals, companies, or similar non-charitable organizations (other than the beneficiaries of your charitable activities), for instance by generating business for a related for-profit company? *

   No
4. If you answered yes to any of the questions above, please explain. *

Publicly Supported Organizations - Major Donors

Based on the information you entered on the previous screen, two percent of your Total Support has been calculated for you below. Please enter amounts from each U.S. or international funder whose TOTAL contributions to your organization over the years provided exceeds this two percent number. Do not enter any amounts for funders whose contributions, in total, do not exceed this two percent number. However, if you received donations from a person and his or her family members (defined to be his or her ancestors, spouse, descendants, or descendants' spouses), treat all those contributions as coming from a single donor. Similarly, if a donor is an entity 20% or more owned by another donor or by that donor and his or her family members, it should be reported with that donor.

For example, if you received contributions from John Doe, his wife Jane Doe, each of their three children, and their family-owned businesses, you would list the "Doe Family and related companies" as a single major donor if their collective total contributions exceeded the 2 percent limit.

For organizations in existence for 5 or more years, you must provide actual financial data. Audited financial data is not required. However, if you have audited financials, please use those numbers here. No projected data is permitted.

For organizations in existence for less than 5 years, you will be asked to provide a combination of actual and projected financial data. Please provide actual data for your current year (to the extent available) and any past years. If you are asked to provide information for the remainder of the current year or years in the future, please provide projected financial data for those columns.
