Implementing the Sendai Framework to Reduce the Humanitarian Burden: ASEAN Resilience in Practice

OBJECTIVE
The establishment of global developmental frameworks such as the Sendai Framework for Disaster Risk Reduction (SFDRR) 2015-2030 aims to reduce risk, improve development pathways and reduce the impact of natural hazards. These frameworks begin to focus on holistic, synergistic solutions that integrate economic, social and environmental outcomes. In line with the global context, ASEAN nations established a common response framework – the ASEAN Agreement on Disaster Management and Emergency Response (The AADMER Work Programme 2016-2020). This side event is in response to the commitment to reinforce national and local leadership and capacities in managing disaster and climate-related risks through strengthened preparedness and predictable response and recovery arrangements (WHS Core Commitment Number 2) in the ASEAN context, which ties back to SFDRR Priorities for Action which links to the commitments made by States at WCDRR to the building of resilience to disasters with a renewed sense of urgency within the context of sustainable development and poverty eradication. The panel will discuss practical experiences highlighting risk reduction and resilience building in action, linking how resilient development process can both reduce the humanitarian burden and inform improved transitions after humanitarian actions.
