PSEA Outreach and Communication Fund
2021 Project Summaries
This Fund was established in 2020 as a deliverable of the High Commissioner’s IASC Championship on Protection from Sexual Exploitation and Abuse (PSEA) and Sexual Harassment (September 2019 to December 2020). A joint initiative of UNHCR and the International Council of Voluntary Agencies (ICVA), the Fund supports the critical work of NGOs in preventing sexual exploitation and abuse by ensuring all affected people know that humanitarian assistance is never conditional on transactions or exchanges of any kind. Moreover, the Fund invests in community-led efforts to ensure that communities and SEA survivors know how and where to safely report allegations of sexual abuse and exploitation.

The launch of the Fund was met with immense interest, with some 1,500 applications from NGOs worldwide after each call for proposals. All eligible applications are reviewed and scored by an interagency steering group of PSEA experts, which in 2021 included representatives from IOM, UNICEF, Oxfam, Care International, Girls Not Brides, and the Communicating with Disaster Affected Communities (CDAC) Network, as well as ICVA and UNHCR. In 2020, the first round of awards was made to 19 NGOs to help them reinforce PSEA through strengthened community awareness and engagement, whose achievements are summarised here. 40 types of material have been developed so far, including, among others, print, audio, video, and community discussion guides, which are available in some 30 languages and are tailored to reach over 20 different Age, Gender, Diversity (AGD) profiles. The full database can be accessed here.

In 2021, an additional 15 grants were awarded to projects in all regions. These projects, summarized below, aim to strengthen engagement with key groups such as adolescent girls, language minorities, persons with disabilities, persons of diverse sexual orientation and gender identity (SOGI), people in geographically isolated areas and communities where risks of transactional sex are known to be high. All selected projects incorporate dedicated attention to SEA risks posed by the COVID-19 pandemic, and each has received technical support and advice from the interagency steering group in developing their respective initiatives.
TAMMOUNDE SPERANZA, Cameroon
Targeting 996 women and 809 men from the IDP and host communities living in Zamaï et Mozogo, TAMMOUNDE SPERANTA developed an awareness-raising radio spot in 3 languages, Mafa, Fufuldé and Haoussa, and printed and distributed 500 posters on PSEA prevention and reporting channels. The NGO also organised 2 training workshops, focused on elaborating key messages and reinforcing understanding of PSEA, with 60 humanitarian actors from 8 national NGOs and 7 international NGOs and 2 training workshops with 61 community leaders, including religious leaders, members of community committees and IDPs. The community workshops also established 2 PSEA community committees to continue PSEA awareness-raising and information sharing within their own communities and to channel SEA reporting at the community level. In addition, 10 focus group discussions with 211 women and girls and 10 focus group discussions with 268 community members, including youth, women and IDP leaders, were held to discuss reporting mechanisms.

SAUTI YA MAMA MUKONGOMANI (SMM), DRC
SAUTI YA MAMA MUKONGOMANI (SMM), a platform of women-led NGOs working in the province of North Kivu, worked through its “Women’s Rights Activists” (WRA) group, composed of women, men, youth and marginalized people (people with albinism, PwD, Pygmy population) which undertakes awareness-raising and communication actions on behalf of SMM on issues such as women’s rights and GBV. SMM developed and produced 48 radio and 2 TV programmes carrying PSEA messages to communities, and designed 100 posters, 100 flyers and 30 picture boxes on prevention and reporting mechanisms which reached more than 50’000 persons. SMM also organized training sessions on PSEA policy for its own members and partner organisations, including 28 persons from local authorities, 22 persons from international NGOs and 54 persons from national NGOs.
39'543 IDP women, girls, men and boys living in IDP sites in Mekelle, Abi Adi and Shire. The NGO also organised 75 community engagement sessions with women, girls and persons with disability on reporting channels and barriers to reporting and a one-day orientation session with 22 IDP leaders and humanitarian partners in Mekelle to increase awareness on PSEA, to discuss how to empower vulnerable groups to report and how to make reporting channels as safe as possible.

Kachere Progressive Women’s Group (KPWG), Malawi

KPWG aimed at raising community awareness in the Nsanje district on SEA risks and available reporting channels through the development of 2 billboards, 1'500 posters and 1'500 wrist bands, produced in vernacular language (Sena). Interactive radio messages including 125 jingles were also produced and integrated in 9 PSEA talk shows which have been heard by over 28'000 persons. The NGO conducted 5 focus group discussions targeting 2'190 women, men, girls and boys on issues such as the lack of inclusivity in PSEA communication channels and reporting and conducted stakeholder meetings with other NGOs, traditional and institutional authorities to strengthen reporting channels.

Horn of Africa Peace Network (HAPEN), Somalia

HAPEN engaged with refugees, IDPs and representatives of camp management in Lower Juba in the design of 4'000 leaflets, 500 posters and 300 shawls to support the transmission of PSEA messages in Somali. The NGO also put in place a mobile communication unit (car, microphone and loudspeaker), which covered 40 IDP camps by providing awareness to people in their homes, streets and market centres and reached 42’000 IDPs and host community members. HAPEN conducted 3 focus group discussions with 60 key stakeholders, such as ministry officials, camp leaders, women leaders, youth groups, IDPs, returnees and hosts. The NGO produced and aired a TV drama to inform the community about SEA, how to prevent and report it and what services are available in Kismayo, which was also posted on social media where it currently has attracted 3.6k views. 3 radio talk shows to promote awareness and to demonstrate safe reporting channels and existing referral pathways were developed and aired and reached an estimated 50’000 people.
Reach Africa Organization (RAO), South Sudan
RAO developed PSEA awareness-raising materials focused on clarifying different types of SEA, available reporting channels and barriers to reporting, in the form of prints, video and audio clips, which were developed through role-play and comics produced by a local youth theatre group, Ana Taban. Posters, flyers and brochures were produced and translated into local languages, and distributed in strategic places in South Sudan. Radio jingles were produced and aired on different community radio stations. All the deliverables targeted the entirety of the community, with a particular focus on women, girls, boys, men, local authorities, women leaders, youth leaders, and religious leaders.

Disability Relief Services (DRS), Tanzania
DRS targeted more than 10’240 refugees, in particular girls, women and people with disabilities, living in refugee camps in Nyarugusu, Nduta and Mtendeli by developing and distributing 350 T-shirts, 350 caps, 1’000 posters, 2’000 flyers and 2’000 leaflets. In addition, the NGO produced 2 comedian shows to disseminate PSEA messages within the wider community, and coordinated a community dialogue for 40 refugee leaders, including zone, village, youth, women and PwD leaders, focused on clarifying the different types of SEA, informing about available reporting channels and discussing barriers to reporting, also through the distribution of the IEC materials produced, notably the flyers.
Childline Zimbabwe, Zimbabwe
As a follow-up to their 2020 project, Childline Zimbabwe targeted 5400 children and 5840 adults living in Tongogara Refugee Camp and surrounding communities by translating and illustrating the Drama Club Guide they developed in 2020 into two local languages, Swahili and Shona. Furthermore, the NGO conducted a training for drama club guide facilitators for 40 participants, which included guidance and counselling teachers, youth and students, to use the drama guide in schools and around the camp. A short radio drama on PSEA and existing reporting platforms available in the camp was also developed. In order to increase visibility on PSEA key messaging and SEA reporting platforms, 65 branded bins, 50 branded handwashing buckets, and a billboard, in both English and Swahili, were produced and placed around the camp. Finally, the NGO organised 3 mobile road shows, which aimed to raise awareness on SEA and safe reporting platforms, and launched a zero-tolerance campaign, targeting humanitarian workers.
Defence for Children International Costa Rica (DNI), Costa Rica

DNI developed and distributed 3 materials on PSEA targeting refugee children and adolescents residing in Upala, Los Chiles and the Great Metropolitan Area of Costa Rica: a story book aimed at girls and boys aged 8-12, a comic aimed at adolescents aged 12-18 and a guide for local actors. 200 copies of the story book, which was developed and validated through 3 workshops organized with 26 children, were distributed in both printed and digital version, which also contained an audio version for children with disabilities, on what constitutes SEA and on existing referral pathways for children. Produced in joint coordination with 19 adolescents during the course of 3 workshops, 200 copies of the comic were distributed, also in printed, digital and audio versions, which contains information on SEA, prevention and reporting mechanisms. Finally, DNI developed 300 copies of a guide for 300 local actors from the host communities, focusing on how they can support the prevention and protection of SEA of children, communication about DNI’s PSEA focal points role and their role in the prevention of SEA. This guide was developed through 3 workshops with the local actors and distributed in both print and digital versions.

Fundación Espacio Creativo, Panama
