Message from Executive Director

Is there anybody in the Driving Seat?

The UN General Assembly last month was another reminder for world leadership to respond to humanity’s most pressing challenges by working together and building bridges not separation walls.

NGOs and other stakeholders called to reinvigorate inclusive and effective multilateralism. ALNAP’s State of the Humanitarian System Report, launched in Nairobi and Geneva, indicates how the scale to which the demand for humanitarian action has increased. The report re-emphasizes the importance of international solidarity and sheds light on how the humanitarian system engages with other forms of crisis support such as those led by the survivor/citizen/communities, religious organizations, private sector, diaspora and the development crisis finance.

The UNHCR Nansen Refugee Award brings widespread recognition to various leaders working to protect and assist refugees, internally displaced and stateless people. The global winner for this year is Dr. Angela Merkel, the former Federal Chancellor of Germany. The UNHCR Nansen Refugee Award 2022 was also awarded to four regional winners, individuals and organizations, who lead on solidarity and leadership at local level.

Dr. Angela Merkel receives this award “for protecting refugees at height of Syria crisis.” She responded no more and no less to a humanitarian imperative. She took a moral leadership while humanitarian values were again put to the test.
Today, we urgently need leaders fully engaged, beyond words, to stand up for human rights, humanitarian principles and international law. At all levels of society, leaders must reject divisive nationalism and urge to show compassion and solidarity.

You will read in this Bulletin how ICVA and its members develop a number of initiatives to create enabling environments for national leaders such as the national leadership programme hosted in Geneva last week and the women-led leadership programmes starting this month.

It is the commitment and leadership by each and all of us that will make the difference. It is about each and every one of us to break the divisive mechanisms and be in the driving seat to stand up to the operationalization of humanitarian principles.

9. Grand Bargain Updates and Future

The final outcomes of both the Quality Funding and Intermediaries Caucuses were shared with Grand Bargain signatories in July and August. The recommendations coming out of both caucuses are relevant to all signatories, and you are encouraged to review the outcome documents in anticipation of a request for broad endorsement. The work of the active Caucus on Localization is also progressing, with a detailed strategy released in September for how the group will progress in the commitment to channel 25% of humanitarian funding to local partners as direct as possible. Updates and relevant caucus documentation can be found on the Grand Bargain website.
Following completion of the Grand Bargain signatory survey, the Facilitation Group is moving forward with plans for developing the options for the future of the Grand Bargain. The survey response rate was good, with 78% (50 of 64) signatories sharing feedback. The top priority for October is to schedule consultations with signatories by constituency to develop proposals for the future of the Grand Bargain. ICVA will organize consultations among NGOs during the second half of October, with A4EP network organizing additional consultations among local partners. An overview of the timeline for discussions on the future of the Grand Bargain is available here.

10. UN Partnership Dialogue

Several consultations between NGOs and UN agencies that include opportunities to discuss simplification and harmonisation of partnership agreements and contractual terms and conditions are upcoming. UNHCR will hold targeted discussions with NGO partners and UN agencies in early October to discuss areas for further improvement of the conditions of partnership. WFP has planned the Annual Partner Consultations for October 25 to 27th, with a focus on operational partnership topics. UNICEF is currently in the middle of a process to update internal and external procedures and guidance on partnership. ICVA will report back to members as results of these dialogues become available and will reach out to members where there are opportunities for NGO inputs.

18. Be Globally Distributed and Locally Rooted

IASC Localisation Task Force 5

The IASC guidance note has been developed to support efforts to strengthen the meaningful participation, representation, and leadership of local and national humanitarian actors with a clear emphasis on considering localisation from a holistic point of view. Different discussions were held with IASC members on how to re-disseminate the guidance and ways to review the progress achieved regarding the meaningful participation of the local actors in the Humanitarian coordination platforms. ICVA, OCHA and key members in the IASC will continue to figure out ways to measure the agreed upon indicators in the guidance to strengthen local participation of NNGOs and LNGOs in HCTs, clusters and related IASC coordination mechanisms.

Women Led Organization’s (WLO) Humanitarian Leadership

ICVA works to support the leadership development for local and national WLO and CSOs in MENA, Asia and Africa. The support includes making global, regional, and country level connections with key actors, and actors with similar strategies and goals for information-sharing and learning to enhance their role and support their leadership development efforts. From ICVA's recent engagement and needs analysis for WLOs in different regions, WLOs need more tailored approach to understand their learning needs on negotiation, collective advocacy, and to support their efforts on creating coordination and an exchange platform among the female leaders for the different regions for enhancing their learning among each other. The first batch of the training will be held in MENA region in October, and this will be followed by another learning programme in Asia in December 2022.
